THE SEASON OF EVERYTHING

A Holiday Journal for Real Emotions

By Tiffany Settles, MS, LMHC

Copyright & Disclaimer Notice

© 2025 Tiffany Settles, NextDoor Counseling Services, LLC. All rights reserved.

No portion of this journal, including text, design, layout, images, prompts, exercises, or activities, may be copied, reproduced, stored, distributed, or transmitted in any form or by any means—electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, scanning, or otherwise—without the express written permission of the author and copyright holder. This publication is intended for personal, non-commercial use only. You may use these pages for your own growth and reflection. However, you may not sell, repackage, or redistribute any portion of this journal in any format, including digital or print, without prior consent. Unauthorized use is a violation of applicable copyright laws and may result in legal action.

For permissions, licensing inquiries, or group usage requests (e.g., schools, therapy groups, or workshops), please contact us directly at:

NextDoor Counseling Services, LLC Website: www.NextDoorCounselingServices.com Email: info@nextdoorcounselingservices.com

Disclaimer

This journal is not a substitute for professional therapy, medical treatment, or mental health diagnosis. While the content is designed to support emotional awareness, personal growth, and reflection, it is not a clinical tool and should not be interpreted as therapeutic advice or a mental health intervention.

The use of this journal does not create a therapist-client relationship between the user and Tiffany Settles or NextDoor Counseling Services, LLC. Any action you take based on this content is done at your own discretion and responsibility.

If you are in emotional distress, experiencing a mental health crisis, or in need of support beyond self-help tools, please seek immediate help from a licensed professional or contact emergency services.

Neither the author nor NextDoor Counseling Services, LLC assumes any liability for outcomes resulting from the use, misuse, or interpretation of this journal. Use at your own discretion and with mindfulness.

If you are in the state of Florida and are curious about, considering or actively looking for a therapist, contact us at NextDoor Counseling Services.

We offer free 15-minute consultations to help get you started. Book your consultation directly on the website or contact us at info@nextdoorcounselingservices.com www.NextDoorCounselingServices.com

Follow us on social media to receive information on mental health topics and resources:

Facebook: @NextDoorCounselingServices LLC Instagram: @NextDoorCounselingServices

'Tis the season. The season for unlimited smiles, giving, kindness, and joy. Everyone seems to be glowing and in the best mood of their lives. Drivers let you merge with a grin. The person ahead of you paid for your morning coffee. Your neighbors suddenly want to help you hang lights. And for some of us, the HOA even allows street parking—as if a holiday miracle just happened. It feels like a whole new world.

Meanwhile, you're quietly wondering, Who are these people? It can feel confusing. You may experience moments of true happiness and get swept up in the festive energy, yet still find yourself secretly counting the days until January. On the outside, everything looks magical. Inside, your mind might be spinning: What am I cooking for the potluck? How much extra should I tip my beautician—and can I afford it? Where do I find this rare toy my kid insists is "a must"? If I fail these midterms, I'm done. And is it wrong to fake an illness just to skip this family dinner?

Maybe your mood hits the same spot every year. Maybe it's just not the same without someone you loved. Maybe you feel isolated because your social battery is running on fumes and another party might do you in. Maybe you feel forgotten as everyone around you rushes through their own holiday whirlwind.

This season can stir up a wide range of emotions. We all move through it differently, and that's okay. How we respond to stress, grief, joy, pressure, excitement, or sadness is part of what makes us human. These differences shape our stories and make our experiences beautifully unique.

Feelings can be complicated. It's possible to feel excited and anxious at the same time. You can reminisce about childhood memories with warmth and still feel a pang of sadness for the time that has passed. You might even tear up thinking about the joy of opening that favorite toy when you were seven. All of this is normal—and it's okay.

This journal is here to guide you through reflections that bring clarity and comfort. These prompts invite you to explore what you feel now, what you've felt before, and what you need moving forward. Expressing yourself is a powerful path toward awareness, and awareness can gently lift your mood, ease stress, and help you practice self-compassion—especially when emotions collide.

You don't have to be a writer. You don't need perfect spelling or grammar. None of that matters here. This is a space for you to freely express what you're thinking and feeling without judgment. Journaling can help release tension, make room for relief, and support your emotional well-being when done consistently.

Inside are 30 reflection prompts to help you navigate a season that can be joyful, overwhelming, and everything in between.

Let's begin.

| • | lays, what feeling showsit as if it were a holidayon your door. |
|---|---|
|   |   |
|   | --  |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   | -   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |
|   |   |

You're allowed to take up space, even during the busiest season of the year.

Make a list of three things you secretly wish you could cancel this holiday season, without guilt. What makes them draining for you?

The holidays don't get to run your life—you're learning how to guide your own peace forward.

| Write about a moment this week when you felt yourself shutting down or powering through. If you could "regift" one burden, what would it be and why? |
|--|
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |

You are not behind; you're simply human, and humans need breathers.

Imagine a personal North Pole where you get to rest. What does it look like? What rules exist there?

You deserve moments of quiet joy, even if they come wrapped in blankets instead of ribbons.

|  | • | Create a "Holiday Boundary Wish List." Include limits |  |
|--|---|---|--|
| you wish you could set with people, places, or obligations |   | , places, or obligations.                             |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |
|  |   |   |  |

Your boundaries are gifts to yourself—no wrapping paper required.

Think of the most overwhelming part of your holiday schedule. If it had a voice, what would it say? What would you like to say back?

Taking small breaks doesn't make you weak; it makes you emotionally hydrated.

|         | an sprinkle into the next two weeks, even on |
|---------|--|
|         | your busiest days.                           |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|         |  |
|  |  |

You have permission to do the holidays your way. Yes... your way.

Create a list of people you want to buy gifts for this year. If money were no object, what would you buy them?

You're doing the best you can while carrying more than anyone knows—and that counts.

Describe a moment when you felt financially stretched this season. What made that moment heavy? What would help lighten it?

Rest is not laziness. Rest is strategy.

Write a letter to your holiday stress. Tell it what it can stop doing immediately.

|          | •             |
|----------|---------------|
|          |               |
|   |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
| Q        |               |
|          |               |
| -        |  - |
|          |               |
|          | (      |
|          |               |
|          | 0             |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
| 9        |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |
|          |               |

You're allowed to place yourself on your holiday priority list—preferably near the top.

| Think about food and drinks you tend to overindulge in during the holidays. What feelings usually come before that moment, and what do you wish you could give yourself instead? |
|--|
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |
|  |

Every time you check in with yourself, you choose healing over habit.

|           | of three holiday traditions you'd like to starton comfort, rest, or joy rather than pressure. |           |
|-----------|---|-----------|
| mat rocus | on comfort, rest, or joy rather than pressure.  |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | _         |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | _         |
|           |   | (         |
|           |   | (         |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | (         |
|           |   | 7         |
|           |   | _         |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | _         |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | ٦         |
|           |   | -         |
|           |   |           |
|           |   |           |
|           |   | 177       |
|           |   | A         |
|           |   | // |
|           |   | 1         |

You're not obligated to be cheerful on command; you're allowed to be real.

| If exhaustion had a holiday jingle, what would the chorus be? Write a few lines and explain why it fits. |  |  |
|--|--|--|
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |

Your peace is valuable—guard it like it came with a fragile sticker.

Describe a family interaction that makes you tense during the holiday season. What personal need is being activated underneath the tension?

You're learning to be present with what you feel, and that is powerful growth.

| Create a "Holiday Survival Kit" list. Fill it with items, |     |
|---|-----|
| attitudes, and tiny practices that help you stay grounded | •   |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   | _   |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   | _   |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   | _   |
|   |     |
|   | 111 |
|   |     |
|   |     |
|   |     |

You don't need perfect plans to take care of yourself; tiny choices still matter.

Write about someone you miss during the holidays. What memories bring comfort? What do you wish you could tell them today?

Grief walks beside love; the heaviness you feel is proof of how deeply you care.

| season. What rhelp yo | - | t small actionfor a minute? | ı could |
|---------------------------|----------|---------------------------------|---------|
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 | -       |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 | No.     |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |
|                           |          |                                 |         |

You are not alone, even when the season gets quiet in uncomfortable ways.

Make a list of your favorite holiday comforts that don't cost money.

|     | • • | . What prompted that out what you needed? |
|-----|-----|---|
| . , | •   | •   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |
|     |     |   |

You always make it through hard moments, even the ones you thought would break you.

Imagine you could decorate your life with only the things that truly support your well-being. What would stay? What would go?

You don't owe anyone holiday-level energy when your battery is blinking red.

Create a list of things you can give yourself for Christmas that do not cost money.

You're allowed to rewrite traditions so they fit your life now, not who you used to be.

If your sleep schedule had a holiday gift tag, what message would it leave for you?

Your body's signals are not inconveniences; they're invitations to slow down.

Make a list called "Things I'm Done Pretending About This Holiday."

| _           |
|-------------|
|             |
| - 1n        |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
| -           |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
|             |
| -011        |
|             |
| _ 1         |
|             |
|             |
| _           |
|             |
| →    |
| 3           |
|      |
|             |
|             |
|             |
|             |
|             |
|             |
|             |
| Sulfa Sulfa |

It's okay to say "no thank you," even if Aunt Whoever is shocked.

What was the best gift you ever received for Christmas? Why? Who was it from?

You're growing in ways that might not be loud, but they're still transforming you.

Think about a holiday gathering you're dreading. What boundaries or escape plans could help you feel more in control?

You have every right to protect your peace from chaos that doesn't belong to you.

Create a list of five activities that help you wind down when your emotions start crowding the room like uninvited guests.

Your healing doesn't take a holiday-it's happening right now.

| Describe a moment this year when you grew, overcame something difficult. How can you l during the holidays? |  |
|---|--|
| during one nondays.   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |

You don't have to earn rest, support, or soft moments. They're already yours.

Imagine your emotions sitting around a holiday table. Which ones are the loudest? Which ones need your attention the most?

You've survived 100% of your hardest days, including the holiday ones.

| Make a "Favorites of the Season" list: scents, songs,      |  |
|--|--|
| snacks, colors, quiet places, or memories that bring ease. |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |

It's okay if your holiday spirit looks more like a gentle glow than a bright sparkle.

| Write a compassionate note to yourself for getting        |  |
|---|--|
| 🔪 through the holidays—before you're even done. What do 🧠 |  |
| you want future-you to remember about who you are         |  |
| right now?  |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |
|   |  |

You are worthy of comfort, care, and a holiday season that doesn't drain your soul.